Since the beginning of this year, once with the new form of the journal, we have exerted every effort to make TERUM a quality publication that provides an international forum for researchers who are concerned with urban management. Our Editorial team has strived hard for refining the submitted papers and further increasing the quality of research papers, which resulted in TERUM being indexed in various databases or directories:

- Ulrich Directory
- Scirus
- REPEC (EconPapers, Ideas, Socionet)
- Scientific Commons
- Genamics
- Google Scholar
- International Consortium for the Advancement of Academic Publications (ICAAP)
- Intute
- Elektronische Zeitschriftenbibliothek
- Knowledge Base Social Sciences Eastern Europe

The efforts undertaken for promoting the international diffusion of TERUM resulted in attracting distinguished professors and researchers all around the world to contribute with their work. For the future we hope to increase the journal diffusion within the scientific community, in order to receive and publish a higher number of quality papers in each issue, because we still need to make an effort to improve the impact of our articles. Our work will be focussed on expanding the journal advisory committee and on following external evaluation processes with the aim of indexing the journal in other important scientific databases.

We express our gratitude to all the authors and reviewers for their continuous support and efforts in strengthening this publication.
